New Remedy for Burns and Corns.

Of all the accidents that happen in a family, those from scalding and burning are probably the most frequent, and certainly the most painful. Every old woman has some pet nostrum to assuage the pain of such mishaps, but judging from our own juvenile experience, on several occasions, the mollifying effects of these are both slow and weak. A new remedy for scalds and burns, and one easily accessible in every household, has lately been discovered by Dr. G. Walters, of Boston, and consists merely in the application of bicarbonate of soda, better known as the common cooking soda, used in nearly every family throughout the land. Having followed the Doctor's example by personally experimenting with this, we can vouch for its excellent effects, and would readily, despite our accumulations of wisdom during the intermediate years, consent to revert once more to childhood's days, if for no other reason than to have the benefit of this remedy for the painful results of several juvenile accidents.

The Doctor, anticipating our action in the matter, tested its effects before a meeting of the Massachusetts Dental Society. He dipped a sponge into boiling hot water and squeezed it over his right wrist, the water flowing almost completely around the arm, and nearly encircling it with a severe scald two inches in width. Not content with this, he dipped the sponge a second time and pressed it closely on the underside of his wrist for thirty seconds. He then applied bicarbonate of soda to the scalded surface, and then laid over it a wet cloth, and the intense pain was banished as if by magic. On the next day after this severe test, the scald, with the exception of the part purposely made most severe, was practically healed, only a slight discoloration of the skin showing where the scalding water had flowed—this, too, without a second application of the soda. The flesh on the under side of the wrist had been cooked down to the sweet glands, and the scald was one which ordinarily would have caused an open and painful wound of long duration. The only treatment of this, however, after the full application of the soda, was to keep the part moist with a wet cloth, and no pain was experienced, and it was but a few days before this severe wound was seen to be rapidly healing.

Wealth vs. Brains.

The Eureka Sentinel advocates the election of the stock gambler, Mark McDonald, to the U. S. Senate to fill the place of A. A. Sargent, soon to be made vacant by reason of the expiration of his term of office. The grounds of the Sentinel for McDonald's election are that he has spent more money than any one else in California to secure the late Democratic victory in that State. Further, that ex-Governor H. H. Haight, took but little part in the recent election in California, and therefore should not receive that favorable consideration that properly belongs to the stock-sharp who has freely spent his money to, perhaps, prevent honest voting. Farley, who is a more prominent candidate than either of the two gentlemen named, cuts no figure with the Sentinel editor. But Henry Haight is as much superior in the qualifications for U. S. Senator over either Farley or McDonald, as R. M. Clarke is better suited to the same office than Senator Sharon. At the present time, when Democrats are loud in their demand for proper reform in the Civil Service—"capable men of integrity in office," etc.—how is it that the Bonanza lover does not adhere to the heralded war cry of his party? It can not be a desire on his part to advocate the election to office of those who, lacking genuine ability, must buy their way into office? Let us think.

State Elections.

To-day state elections will be held in eleven States. In Massachusetts, State officers and a Legislature are to be elected; in Minnesota, likewise, a full ticket; in Mississippi, a Legislature; in New Jersey, a Legislature and State officers; in New York, a Legislature and some State officers; in Pennsylvania, a Legislature; in Tennessee, a full ticket; in Texas, a full ticket; in Virginia, a full ticket; and in Wisconsin, a full ticket. Four of these States give Republican majorities, seven will probably go Democratic. There is but little interest taken in these State elections, outside of the respective States. There is, however, a general desire that the legislative ticket may be such as shall ensure Republican or Democratic Senators to be elected to Congress from New York and Wisconsin. But since the present members of the Assemblies of these States do not take part in the Senatorial election of '79, and as future elections may entirely change the complexion of the present political majority in those States, the interest which we take in the elections being held to-day is very meagre.

The Gain of War.

The Turks and Russians are now bringing their desultory war to a close, and it is held that the conflict will be terminated this winter. Each nation has lost nearly 100,000 fighting men up to date. These have been their strong men. The weak ones are protected at home. Thus these less civilized nations, already weak as governments are destroying much of their strength while they nurture a distinct element of national infirmity. Nevertheless the present eastern war will prove a blessing to Europe and especially to Russia and Turkey. The terrible jostlings which a despotic government in such conflicts receives, proves in the end conducive to more rapid national growth, exhibits the defects of antiquated forms and paves the way for the infusing of new and higher political and social life. Hence Europe and America, may rejoice, not simply from a mercenary view of the present strife, but also because of the ameliorative effects of this war upon the people of the nations now struggling for victory.

The Congressional Committee on Expenditures in the Navy Department has called upon the Secretary of the Navy and informed him of their purpose to make a thorough investigation of the accounts of the Department under the administration of Secretary Robeson, and especially into the transfer of funds appropriated for the pay of the navy and other channels. Mare Island Navy Yard, we understand, will furnish food for investigation; as, for instance, the repairs of a war vessel costing more than its original cost.

Farmers' Homes.

A farmer's home may be made a place of great comfort and attraction or quite the reverse. The fact of its being out of the dust and away from the din of the city, and surrounded by pleasant landscapes, is calculated to enhance its beauty and add to its comfort, but we too often find among the farmers nothing but incessant toiling, a dearth of home comforts, a conviction on the part of the farmer that time spent in an effort to beautify and make pleasant his home is absolutely thrown away, and the result is that we see everything rough, soiled, untidy, and the life a ceaseless round of care and labor. Yet we find very different scenes from this, and even among farmers of quite limited means, but of a more refined taste, perhaps, who make their country life and country homes the source of much enjoyment. It is not unreasonable to estimate, taking all the year round, that out of a dozen hours of the day two might be devoted to brushing up around the premises, planting and training ornamental trees and shrubbery, in the cultivation of flowers and in the collection of interesting objects in natural history. Thus the home may be made a more pleasant and attractive place for the often overworked farmer's wife, and a better and more suitable place in which to bring up and develop the better tastes of the children. Again: the farmer can doubtless find time enough from the essential labors of the farm to take the family on many a pleasant ride around the premises and through the neighborhood. This time he may afford to take often, even from the lighter labors of the farm, since in that way he may be even "more perfectly fulfilling the purposes of a short life than in merely rolling together dollars and cents by uninterrupted work." Civilization is gradually improving the condition of the agricultural people. With the increase of the means and facilities for cultivation a powerful agency is ever active in the elevation and improvement of the country people themselves. The exercise of improved methods and the use of improved machinery calls for the exercise of thought, and the ornamentation of the farm house and grounds develops the aesthetic tastes, and thus the experiment gradually goes on. The principal agency which is operating to produce the desired result is the common school system, and the improved methods and means of instruction now in reach of the common people. Many more in proportion to the entire population, than formerly, come up from the corn fields to attend the academies, seminaries and universities, and returning cultivated and enlightened into the agricultural districts, infuse an improved element into country life.—Ashland (Oregon) Tidings.

Conger, of Michigan, scalped speaker Randall recently, thus: Some question of parliamentary law being under discussion, Randall said, "you must allow the Chair to exercise some little common sense in conducting the business of the House." Conger instantly retorted, "if the Chair makes an effort in that direction, I would be very unwilling to obstruct him." This is as good as Thad. Stevens' reply to the Pennsylvania Judge, who so disgusted him that Stevens started abruptly to leave the court room. "Did you intend to be guilty of showing contempt for this court?" inquired the Judge. "No," replied Stevens, "I only intended to conceal it."

The Treasury now holds $243,811,900 in bonds to secure National Bank circulation, and $14,945,500 to secure public deposits. United States bonds deposited for circulation during the week ending to-day, amount to $2,415,750; United States bonds held for circulation withdrawn during the week ending to-day, $467,750; bank circulation outstanding—currency note $317,567,110; gold notes, $1,432,120.

PROGRESS OF THE SUTRO TUNNEL.—During the week ending November 1st the Suto tunnel was advanced 75 feet. The total number of feet driven at that date was 18,147. The quantity of water flowing out of the tunnel is equal to 54 miners inches. 248 1-6 feet is found to be the average progress made for the past six months. At this rate it will take eight months and about a week to reach the termination at the Comstock lode.

A prophet hath honor save in his own land! Harry Meigs left California between two days and under a cloud. He went to Peru and became a public benefactor. There he died, and there were 20,000 people and 200 coaches at his funeral and a national subscription is to be raised for the purpose of erecting a monument to his memory.

The Rye Patch is yielding bullion at the rate of $1,000 a day, and the mine never looked so well as at present.

Clara Louise Kellogg says it takes her fully a year to learn an opera, but she gives herself dead away by saying she knows and can sing forty operas.

THE LAOCOON.—The Latin poet Virgil has drawn a vivid picture of one of the scenes which hastened the fall of ancient Troy. The noble Trojan priest, Laocoon, denounced the infatuation of his countrymen, when they determined to receive the monstrous wooden horse, stuffed with Greek troops and princes, into the city. He tried every means to rouse his countrymen to a sense of their peril, and at last hurled his spear against the hollow fraud. But lest his passion might be effective, the hostile gods that helped the Greeks sent two snakes over the sea from Tenedos, with crest dropping blood and quivering tongues that licked their hissing mouths. They made their way in the city at once to the Laocoon and his sons, wound themselves in frightful festoons round their limbs, bound them in a group of agony which sculpture has made immortal, crushed and choked them, and reared their crests and poisonous tongues over the brow of the patriotic priest, whose chaplet was black with their poison and red with his own death. Thus the church of Troy was silenced; the serpents nestled safe under the buckle of the goddess in the sanctuary; the wooden horse was admitted, and that night Troy was in flames.—Starr King.

PRINTING OFFICE SECRETS.—A properly conducted printing office is as much a secret as a Masonic Lodge. They are not under oath of secrecy, but always feel themselves as truly in honor bound to keep office secrets as though tripled oaths. Any employee in a printing office who willingly disregards this rule in relation to printing office secrets would not only be scorned by his brethren of the craft but would lose his position at once. We make this statement because it sometimes happens that a communication appears in a newspaper under an assumed signature which excites comment, and various parties try to find out who is the author. Let all be saved the trouble of questioning the employee of the printing office. They are know-nothings on such points as these. On such matters they have eyes and ears, no mouth, and if any fail to observe this rule, let them be put down as disreputable members of the craft. It is the same in job printing. If anything is to be printed and kept a secret, let notice be given of the desire for secrecy, and you might as well question the Sphinx as one of the printers, so that even the secret books for lodges are printed without fear.—Printer's Circular.

WOMEN AND HOME.—There is a bundle of delight bound up in the sweet word, home. The word is typical of comfort, love, sympathy, and all the other qualities that constitute the delights of social life. Were the every-day enjoyments of the many of our intelligent and affectionate families faithfully portrayed, they would exceed, in moral heroism, interest and romance, most of the productions of the pen of fiction. The social well-being of society rests on our home, and what are the foundation stones of our homes but woman's care and devotion?

A good mother is worth an army of acquaintances, and a true-hearted, noble-minded sister is more precious than the "dear five hundred friends." Those who have played around the same doorstep, basked in the same mother's smile, in whose veins the same blood flows, are bound by a sacred tie that can never be broken. Distance may separate, quarrels may occur, but those who have a capacity to love anything must have at times a bubbling up of fond recollections, and a yearning of by-gone days. Every woman has a mission on earth. There is "something to do" for every one—a household to put in order, a child to attend to, some class of unfortunate, degraded or homeless humanity to befriend. That soul is poor indeed that leaves the world without having exerted an influence that will be felt for good after she has passed away.

INFLUENCE IN THE WORLD.—Who can estimate the power of personal influence? The careful, industrious mistress of a house has an influence on her circle, the extent of which she herself cannot calculate. So has that fast and frivolous wife, to whom pleasure is as the breath of her nostrils, her fine clothes dearer than her children, and of all sorrows work and duty the most sorrowful. How many young minds has she not warped by her pernicious example, so brilliant in its setting and so seductive in its lines? It is so hard to work, so pleasant to play. Has a bold, slangy girl no influence over her comrades? If a good, pure and happy girl who neither flirts nor idles, neither talks slang nor affects improper subjects, who finds no pleasure in silly little intrigues, and abhors all degrading little falsehoods; who believes in duty, and acts as if she believes—such a girl as this is a friend which every wise mother desires her child to make, so, on the other hand, is the bold and idle, thriftless and undutiful girl the one whom she would wish to be avoided, because of the power and influence. Every man and woman living has influence for good or evil. Our personality has influence; our habits our modes of thought, our fashion of dress, our method of speech, each circumstance of our individuality, makes its mark, and either repels by the distaste or attracts by the admiration which it inspires; there is no one so small and insignificant as to be destitute of the power of stirring, to some extent, the world in which he lives.

A Long Wait for a Wedding.

Orange county has just had a wedding with enough romance about it for a novel. In 1863 the bridegroom, then a young man, though under an engagement to the lady whom he has just married, enlisted in the Union army. His sweetheart made no effort to dissuade him from what he thought his duty, and with a breaking heart she bade him adieu and quietly buried herself in her home with her widowed mother, the only living member of the family beside herself. For a while all went well, and loving letters from his sweetheart cheered the gallant soldier, and tender words of hope from him made life endurable to her. After the battle of Chancellorsville his letters suddenly ceased. Letter after letter was written to him and his comrades, but all that could be learned was that after that terrible battle he was missing. Whether he had been killed or taken prisoner no one could tell, and his fate remained a mystery. His stricken sweetheart never entirely abandoned hope, and lived on, "tender and true," hoping against hope for his return. After many patient years her troth has been rewarded, and she is now a happy bride. His narrative is that some time during the fight he was taken prisoner, and soon after he was sent to a Southern prison, where he was kept about a year, suffering untold torture. He finally escaped and reached the seaboard, where he conceived the idea of personating an English sailor and getting to England on a blockade-runner. After that all is blank. He learned afterwards that he had been taken ill and soon after insane. On his arrival in England he was taken to an insane asylum by the Captain of the blockade-runner, where he remained until a year ago, when he was discharged cured, but penniless. He succeeded by the assistance of friends in the asylum in securing a situation in a mercantile house, where he rapidly won the esteem of the principals, to whom he told his story. A leaf of absence was granted him; he came to Middletown and found his old sweetheart, now a mature lady of 32, still faithful to his memory. They were quite married and have returned to England, where he proposes to remain for a term of years. During his long absence his only surviving relatives, a brother and uncle, had died, and he had no ties to keep him here, save the love of country, which will eventually bring him and his faithful wife back to our shores.

The Best Cow on Record.

The best butter cow of which we have a reliable account was bought by a farmer out of a drove on its way from Maine to Brighton, about the year 1813. The farmer's name was Oakes, and the cow, when she became famous, was known as the Oakes cow. She was purchased from Mr. Oakes by his brother, a shoemaker, who kept her until she died. Her butter-making capacity coming to the knowledge of the Massachusetts Agricultural Society, one of the trustees visited Mr. Oakes and engaged him to put her on trial and report the result. This trial took place in 1816, and from May 17th to December 20th of that year the cow made on an average a fraction over sixteen pounds of butter per week, besides furnishing a quart of milk a day to Mr. Oakes' family. Her feed consisted of grass and a bushel of meal per week, which was given to her stirred into her own milk after it was skimmed. This cow was described as being of very moderate size, with a straight back, a fine head and neck, with broad hips, and milk-veins and udder of the best form and capacity. This cow was bred in the vicinity of Kennebec, where a good many short-horns had been imported. There was no record to show how much improved blood entered into her composition, but it was said of her that her straight back, wide hips and general contour showed her to be, in some degree, of short-horn origin, though she was not believed to be even of high grade. The Oakes cow did not produce a calf in any way equal to herself in any regard.—Mirror and Farmer.

George Kinney, whose suit against the Virginia Consolidated was recently decided against him, was offered by Flood & O'Brien the sum of $96,000 to compromise the suit. He refused, and got nothing.

Every man likes to hit the nail on the head. But let a man hit the nail upon the toe—his big toe, particularly against a rock, and it is a different matter entirely.

Sign at a tavern near the cemetery of St. Ouen—"The Mourner's Return! Choice Wines and Liquors. Private rooms for guests who wish to weep in private."

First New Yorker—"I consider him of first-class business talent." Second New Yorker—"Ah, indeed! What was the amount of his defalcation?"

A Georgia paper complainingly remarks: "The season for burning negro children and gin-houses is a little backward."

We know a shrewd farmer who made a fortune cultivating weeds. They were weeds.

The car punch is a failure too. Only the milk punch is left us now.

Hafiz Pasha is mentioned by the Graphic as the man who is going to lose Hafiz army.

Cats are much slandered. They never made a noise until "driven to the waul."

The woman's cause—because.

Of twenty-three young men who only last month stepped across the threshold of life from an Eastern college, and went forth upon the trackless ocean of life to battle with relentless fate and win renown or a glorious death in the arena, eleven are clerking in auction stores at fourteen dollars a month, one is running a fish-boat, two are learning the house-painting trade, one starved to death before he had been out of college a week, one is driving a team on a street contract, two are tramps, and the others are living with their widowed mothers, who are their only support. Fact is, brethren, when old life grapples its hooks into a man's collar, it shakes all the arena and ocean and little business out of him so quick that in six weeks, if he is alive, he knows more in a minute about the price of pork and flour than he can tell you about a Greek root in six months.—Burlington Hawkeye.

DAIRYMEN ATTENTION.

The Buffalo Salt Works

ARE NOW IN CONDITION TO SUPPLY your wants, and the proprietor asserts that for quality his product cannot be beaten.

The BUFFALO DAIRY SALT received the first premium at the Fourth Annual Fair of the Nevada State Agricultural, Mining and Mechanical Society, and it is really

A FINE QUALITY OF SALT.

Farmers are invited to try it.

The same salt is now in use in Sierra, Lassen and Modoc counties, and gives the best of satisfaction for Dairy and meat curing purposes.

LARGE QUANTITIES OF

Meat, Dairy and Stock Salt

Are now ready at the marsh for shipment, and the proprietor, feeling convinced that he has a superior article, has determined that farmers shall try it.

Dairymen are invited to Experiment at my Expense.

After using Liverpool Salt try some fine dairy salt from the Buffalo Marsh, and note the difference in price.
